WESELÁNEW – Moon of the Shaker Leaves November

For the Saanich Peoples, November marks a month of falling leaves, turbulent waters and the skies., and a cooling of the earth. In the WESELÁNEW moon, fishing was undertaken mostly in the safety of local waters. This was the time when big winds come and changed the season to Winter. The days became cooler and travelling in food gathering territory was limited. The winds that came with this moon were a signal to move to the winter village as the open sea became dangerous for movement in open boats. Most foods were now in storage for the Winter and fishing was done only close to the village sites. The Saanich Peoples formed hunting parties and moved West into the mountains to hunt elk. Elk were only hunted after the first snowfall as it was easier to track an elk if it was wounded. This way no meat would be wasted. Winter fires were lit and this was the beginning of Winter gatherings.

SJELCASEN – The Moon of Putting your Paddle away in the Bush November - December

This is the season of strong, unpredictable winds when travel on the open sea becomes unsafe and the big canoes and paddles are put away in gratitude for their service through the year's journeys. As snow becomes possible, communities settle into winter life — gathering in longhouses for storytelling and ceremonies. With most food stored, people turn to weaving mats, clothing, and baskets, repairing tools and fishing gear, and splitting red cedar logs (S,ILETEW) into planks for building. The low winter tides allow for clam digging, while the powerful SKANET (southeast) and SCES (southwest) winds mark the true arrival of winter.

Hindu Heritage Month November

November is also recognized as Hindu Heritage Month in Canada, celebrating Hindu communities, their cultures, and traditions. Hindu culture is one of the world's oldest, encompassing diverse languages, philosophies, and practices that emphasize balance, compassion, and connection to the natural world. Family and community are central, and festivals such as Diwali and Dev Diwali highlight values of light, learning, and gratitude. Food plays a meaningful role, with vegetarian dishes, sweets, and offerings (prasad) shared in celebration and devotion.

Lebanese Heritage Month November

November is also recognized as Lebanese Heritage Month in Canada, celebrating Lebanese communities, their cultures and traditions. Lebanese culture reflects a unique blend of Arab, Mediterranean, and European influences, shaped by its diverse religious heritage and long history. Family and community are central, as well as a vibrant, Mediterranean-inspired cuisine. Arabic, French, and English are commonly spoken.

Lebanese cuisine is known for its freshness, balance, and rich Mediterranean flavours. Traditional dishes include hummus, tabbouleh, baba ghanoush, kibbeh, and falafel, often served with warm pita and fresh herbs. Meals typically feature shared plates, grilled meats, olive oil, lemon, and aromatic spices, reflecting a culture of hospitality and gathering. Popular desserts like baklava and ma'amoul showcase the use of nuts, honey, and dates.

Samhain November 1st

Samhain is an ancient Celtic festival marking the end of the harvest season and the beginning of winter. Originating in Ireland and Scotland, it was a time to honour ancestors, prepare for the darker half of the year, and celebrate the final harvest. Feasting played a central role, with traditional foods like root vegetables, apples, grains, and meat shared around communal fires. People offered food to spirits and set extra places at the table for departed loved ones. Many modern Halloween traditions trace their roots back to Samhain's blend of harvest celebration and remembrance.

Día de Los Muertos (Day of the Dead) November 1 & 2st

Día de los Muertos is a Mexican celebration honouring loved ones who have passed on. It is a joyful remembrance, filled with music, colour, and offerings. Families create ofrendas (altars) decorated with marigolds, candles, photos, and meaningful items, and prepare favourite foods of those being remembered, such as pan de muerto, tamales, and atole. Sugar skulls, papel picado, and visits to cemeteries reflect the belief that loved ones return during this time. The celebration blends Indigenous traditions and Catholic influences, recognizing death as a natural part of life and celebrating enduring connection to ancestors.

Guru Nanak Jayanti November 5th

Guru Nanak Jayanti, also known as Guru Nanak Gurburab, celebrates the birth of Guru Nanak Dev Ji, the founder of Sikhism and the first of the ten Sikh Gurus. It is one of the most significant Sikh festivals, marked by devotional singing, processions, and prayers at gurdwaras. Central to the celebration is the Langar, a free community kitchen where volunteers prepare and serve vegetarian meals to all, symbolizing equality, service, and unity. Traditional foods such as kada prasad, dal, and roti are shared as offerings of gratitude and devotion.

Dev Diwali/ Dev Deepavali November 5th

Dev Diwali, meaning "the Diwali of the Gods," is a Hindu festival of light and gratitude celebrated on the full moon (Purnima) of the Hindu month of Kartik, about fifteen days after Diwali. It is especially grand in Varanasi, where thousands of diyas (oil lamps) illuminate the ghats of the Ganges River in honour of the gods' descent to Earth after Lord Shiva's victory over the demon Tripurasura. The festival features offerings of sweets, fruits, and traditional foods such as kheer, puri-sabzi, and laddoos, along with community feasts (bhandaras). Dev Diwali symbolizes spiritual cleansing, abundance, and gratitude, marking the transition from the harvest season to the onset of winter.
